

Fundamentals of Crime Analysis August 23-27, 2010 Independence, Missouri Police Department

Fundamentals of Crime Analysis

Course Instructor: Christopher Hay is currently the Executive Director of a research criminological organization that deals with recidivism and offender reintegration. Prior to this role, Chris was the Supervisor of the Intelligence Analysis Unit for the Edmonton Police Service and prior to that was a Criminal Intelligence Analyst with the same organization. Chris currently instructs Sociology, Criminology, Research Methods and Crime and Intelligence courses for a number of post secondary and other institutions including MacEwan University, Norquest College, the British Columbia Institute of Technology, the International Association of Crime Analysts, and Crime and Justice Analysts. Finally, Chris recently assumed the contracted role of Tactical Advisor to the Minister of National Security for Trinidad and Tobago.

Course Description: With a combination of seminar, group projects, and hands-on exercises, the class covers the functions and processes of crime analysis, the skills and knowledge necessary to succeed, proper administration of a crime analysis unit, and pointers for further training and development. The class includes an overview of the more extensive training found in the other four IACA Professional Training Series courses.

Certification Skills: Fundamentals of Crime Analysis, Interpreting Crime Statistics, Critical Thinking, Criminal Behavior, Data Integrity
